LIL'S STORY

Liliana Lovell grew up in Westchester County, New York. She graduated from NYU with a degree in psychology and communications. Working on Wall Street as an investment banking intern, Lil made $200 a week . . . Pouring drinks in New York City, she made $300 a night. Lil started bartending full-time at a cowboy bar called the Village Idiot. She managed the Idiot for three years, where she perfected her unique routine of dancing on the bar, singing, and challenging the customers to drinking contests. She learned her business model ( beautiful girls + booze = money ) from her boss, notorious bar owner, Tom McNeill. Lil left the Idiot to open her own bar. She leased the failed Italian eatery across the street and opened the Coyote Ugly Saloon on January 27, 1993.
